History and Development

In the early 2000s, French architect Gilles Saint Gilles and his wife Camille brought international attention to the Los Destiladeros area by launching the Azueros Project, a luxury real estate development designed to attract an elite international clientele. Their vision was to create an architectural masterpiece that blends modern design with the natural beauty of Panama's Pacific coast, introducing a new standard of luxury living in the region.

Villa Camilla is one of the most iconic structures within the Azueros Project. Villa Camilla exemplifies the fusion of luxury and nature, featuring traditional materials like wood and stone, seamlessly integrated into the lush tropical landscape.

The attention to detail and craftsmanship in Villa Camilla, and the wider Azueros Project, have contributed to the area becoming a sought-after destination for those seeking luxury, privacy, and natural beauty. Today, it stands as a testament to the visionary work of Gilles and Camille Saint Gilles, offering an unparalleled living experience in one of Panama's most exquisite coastal regions.

Lifestyle in Los Destiladeros

It's impossible to describe the Los Destiladeros lifestyle without touching on the community's sophisticated clientele. The desire for privacy and luxury drive much of the area's look and feel, with spectacular homes and carefree lifestyles. No, it's not exactly Miami or the French Riviera– but don't be surprised to meet residents who float between Pedasí and more famous luxury destinations.

One aspect that separates Los Destiladeros from other affluent communities is the area's exquisite natural landscape and the recreation it provides. Residents and visitors take full advantage of the area's surfing, diving, fishing, and hiking opportunities. Of course, the pulsing nightlife of Playa Venao and quieter restaurants of Pedasi are only a short drive away.

Amenities in Los Destiladeros

Nearby Pedasi (10 minutes) and Playa Venao (30 minutes) provide the bulk of shopping, restaurants, services, and other amenities for residents in Los Destiladeros. Really, they like it that way– it helps to keep the community quiet and relatively free of vacationers passing through. Los Destiladeros is, after all, a place to unplug and stick your feet in the sand .

Visitors and homeowners in this upscale area are just as likely to have a private chef cook their meals as they are to go out. They might hire a professional masseuse to give massages at home, or set up horses to ride on any one of the many amazing beaches. Here, it's about peace, relaxation and enjoying the natural environment.

Activities in Los Destiladeros

With the area's exquisite landscape, activities in Los Destiladeros tend to revolve around the sea. Surfing, fishing, and diving are some of the activities you can enjoy in Los Destiladeros– and the surrounding Azuero landscape offers plenty more.

There is also great surfing in Los Destiladeros that many say rivals the main break at Playa Venao. There are miles and miles of sandy beach, broken up only by intermittent rocky outcroppings that are perfect for tidepooling at low tide. These rocky outcroppings are teeming with sea life, and you'll often see the locals gathering shellfish near shore, or even venturing out deeper to hunt lobster, octopus, and inshore fish species.

There are also miles of secondary dirt road and trails that zig-zag through the hillsides. Here you can go hiking, birdwatching, monkey sighting, or simply saunter through this tropical oasis at your leisure. Area homes offer a front-row seat to the area's diverse wildlife– just pull up a chair on the balcony and watch the colorful birds flutter by.

Los Destiladeros Real Estate Market

The rise of Los Destiladeros as a high-end community can be mainly attributed to Gilles and Camille Saint Gilles, who settled in the area about twenty years ago. Having designed and built mansions and palaces from France to the Middle East, Gilles Saint Gilles set about realizing his vision, known as the Azueros community, of a tropical oasis of beauty and architectural wonder built across a large parcel of forested hills and sandy beaches.

More recently, ocean-view land parcels have come on the market that offer both large lot sizes and incredible ocean view and access to the beach. For those looking to live in a home of their own design, we invite you to ask us about land options and our list of vetted custom home builders. Over the last few years there have been some incredible additions to an already rich community of beautiful properties.

With stunning beachfront views, it has become a popular spot for luxury real estate, offering properties that balance privacy with access to the natural beauty of the Pacific coast. Los Destiladeros is also close to cultural attractions like traditional Panamanian festivals, and its proximity to Pedasí provides residents access to essential services while maintaining a rural, peaceful environment.
